

Introduction

In accordance with section 54(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 (“MSA”), this statement provides details of the measures that we take to prevent slavery and human trafficking occurring in our business and supply chains.

This statement covers Assurant’s UK group companies, Assurant General Insurance Limited, Lifestyle Services Group Limited, and Assurant Device Care Limited, all of which are required to comply with the MSA, as well as The Warranty Group Services (Isle of Man) Limited based in the Isle of Man.

It also covers the business and supply chain of other Assurant UK companies for openness and transparency, including London General Insurance Company Limited and TWG Services Limited, although those companies are not required to comply with the MSA. Together all these firms are referred to as “Assurant UK” in this statement. A list of the principle operating companies is included in the appendix.

Our organisation’s structure, its business, and its supply chains

Assurant UK is part of the global Assurant group headed by Assurant, Inc. (NYSE:AIZ). Assurant is a premier global protection company that partners with the world’s leading brands to safeguard and service connected devices, homes, and automobiles. As a Fortune 500 company operating in 21 countries, Assurant utilises data-driven technology solutions to provide exceptional customer experiences.

Assurant UK offers a selection of these products in the UK primarily on a business to business to consumer basis. We focus on three defined business lines:

1. Connected Living - in our Connected Living business we help protect, connect, and support the things consumers buy, like connected devices and mobile phones. Our services include mobile and gadget device protection, product extended warranties, technical support, and device lifecycle services such as trade-ins and upgrade programs. The Connected Living sector stretches across many areas including banks and financial institutions, mobile networks, retailers, and device manufacturers.
2. Automotive - we have integrated capabilities to provide our Automotive partners with configurable solutions. We provide a range of products including automotive warranty, guaranteed asset protection, cosmetic protection, and service plans. We act as the insurer, administrator, and claims handler for anything automotive related making it simpler and more convenient for our partners and their customers.
3. Housing - intermediation of home and renters’ insurance products

Our products are purchased and used by individuals who are customers of our clients across the UK. In Connected Living we also sell direct to consumers through the Protect Your Bubble brand as well as providing certain insurance products and administration services to commercial companies.

As well as our UK offices, we operate our own bespoke device care centre facility designed specifically for Assurant staff and customers, enabling us to work on customers’ devices quickly and carefully.

Our UK workforce comprised around 1,000 direct employees at the end of 2025.

We have an extensive supply chain, which covers a wide range of products and services across multiple suppliers, which each present different levels of risk and management requirements. Our supply chains differ by line of business:

1. Connected Living - we source repairs, parts and replacements for customers' broken or lost devices from the original equipment manufacturers (e.g. Apple) and a limited number of repair partners based in the UK and Europe. In 2024 we acquired iSmash, the UK's leading tech repair brand, adding further scale and strength to our drop-in repair services alongside our existing Pocket Geek Tech Repair brand. We may also direct customers to our partners' high street retail repair stores. Our Connected Living supply chain also involves the services of several logistics firms as we seek to collect and return our customers devices.
2. Automotive - we source repairs to our customer vehicles through a network of responsible UK automotive dealerships. Whilst we seek to direct customers to the dealerships that they originally bought the vehicle from, or those repairers that we know and trust, some customers may also choose to use other repairers outside of our networks. A significant proportion of the dealerships and repairers that we use are accredited and approved by major UK motoring organisations.
3. Housing - as an insurance intermediary only in Housing, we have very little by way of direct supply in relation to the business that we administer with claims fulfilment being the responsibility of the underwriting insurer.

In addition to the above, we have sourced a range of Corporate Services from third parties and other group companies e.g. consulting, IT licensing and support, recruitment, insurance, facilities etc. primarily in the UK, European Union, and the United States. Suppliers do not change on a seasonal basis.

Our policies in relation to slavery and human trafficking

We are guided by internal policies to ensure that our employees conduct business in an ethical and transparent manner. All policies are accessible to employees via the company intranet site. These include:

1. Assurant Modern Slavery policy: sets out the organisation's stance on modern slavery and explains how our employees can identify instances of this and how they must report it. Employees are required to complete mandatory training on our Modern Slavery obligations annually.
2. Code of Business Conduct and Ethics: contains guidance on how to apply our values and ethical standards in day-to-day business and how to report any concerns. Our employees are expected to engage in and promote honest and ethical conduct and report any violation of these standards. All employees are required to undertake mandatory training to ensure that they understand the company's ethical standards. Violation of our code of ethics is a disciplinary offence.
3. Assurant Whistleblowing policy: encourages our employees to raise concerns regarding practices within our business and supply chain without fear of reprisal. Employees are required to complete mandatory training on our Whistleblowing policy annually.

We expect the same high standards from all our contractors, suppliers and other business partners as set out in our Global Supplier Code of Conduct.

More details on our Code of Business Conduct and Ethics and on Assurant Global Supplier Code of Conduct can be found on our global website Ethics pages.

Our due diligence in relation to slavery and human trafficking in our business and supply chains

We periodically evaluate how to identify and address risks in each category of our supply chain, including those related to modern slavery and human trafficking.

To map and mitigate risk, we use a variety of methods which allow us to undertake due diligence on our suppliers and ensure we have appropriate policies and contractual terms in place, so that our suppliers understand the standards we require of them. To the extent that our suppliers do not adhere to our standards, there can be material consequences, including the termination of our relationship with them. Critical, Tier 1 and Tier 2 suppliers are required to acknowledge the Assurant Supplier Code of Conduct or provide their own equivalent policy at the time of onboarding and to periodically re-attest (every 2 or 3 years) compliance with those standards. Labour providers, third-party administrators and payment processors that do not fall into the categories above are also required to follow the attestation process. For Connected Living repair supply chain, where considered appropriate additional due diligence is conducted for higher risk / larger suppliers.

Assurant globally continues to maintain external accreditation in relation to Environmental, Social and Governance (“ESG”) matters by an independent third party. This includes assessment of our performance in respect of labour rights for our own staff and within our supply chain. We continue to take the results and recommendations from these assessments to improve processes going forward.

Our global Sustainability team supported by senior stakeholders from across the business, remain responsible for advising the Assurant UK Boards in respect of ESG matters including those relating to slavery and human trafficking.

More details of Assurant’s global sustainability program can be found on our Assurant Sustainability pages.

Parts of our business and supply chains where there is risk of slavery and human trafficking taking place, and the steps we have taken to assess and manage that risk

A specific risk assessment is performed to identify the risk areas within our business and supply chains, where there is a risk of slavery and human trafficking taking place. This assessment has confirmed that the largest risk areas exist within our indirect workforce and the third-party service providers we partner with.

This risk assessment is a living document that is reviewed at least annually to accompany the publication of our Modern Slavery Statement. As part of the risk assessment business leaders have confirmed the controls that they operate to mitigate the risks of modern slavery within our business.

We believe our risk of exposure to modern slavery in our direct workforce is low. This is due to our employees being primarily based in the UK and Europe where they are screened pre-employment and operate within working environments where established training courses, policies and procedures are maintained and enforced. Nevertheless, our People Organisation remain vigilant and attentive to any signs of modern slavery within our direct workforce or control enhancement opportunities.

Our Facilities teams also ensure our offices are maintained to a high standard, meeting health and safety and working place standards. Furthermore, with a substantial proportion of our workforce now working from home there are regular well-being events and an online workplace assessments. Employees can also request a desktop assessment, with any recommendations from these being fulfilled.

Our risk increases with our indirect workforce, those supplied by third parties due to the limited visibility into our partners’ operations and hiring practices, however our use of such workforce is limited. Though to combat potential modern slavery risks associated with an indirect workforce, we perform due diligence over modern slavery risks (charging recruitment fees or other costs, withholding of wages, retention of passports/personal identification) prior to appointment and implement contractual requirements for our partners to adhere to the minimum employment age limits, wage minimums, working hours and benefits defined by applicable laws and regulations etc. Where applicable, we require suppliers to provide their modern slavery statement as part of our ongoing vendor management.

Our risk also increases with our supply chain, again due to the limited visibility into their operations and hiring practices. However, our suppliers within our Connected Living business are the manufacturers and within Automotive are established suppliers meeting set requirements. Most of our suppliers are UK-based entities that we deal with directly or through intercompany transfers from the EU and US.

In 2024 we acquired iSmash, the UK's leading independent tech repair brand, offering express drop-in repair services for smartphones, tablets and laptops. Employment and recruitment practices were assessed as part of the acquisition due diligence and integration with Assurant UK's existing procedures which include policies and training related to modern slavery will be completed in 2026.

Within the terms and conditions of our Auto warranty products, customers can go to a non-contracted garage for their repair. Unlike our contracted garages we will not have performed due diligence, embedded code of conduct within a contract or performed onboarding and training. Most of our engagements with these garages are one-off, but if there was repeat use by customers, we would seek to onboard those garages.

All our employees and contractors are notified of our whistleblowing service where any concerns can be raised and investigated.

Since our last Modern Slavery statement we have reviewed our modern slavery practices against the UK Government Transparency in Supply Chains: Guidance published in 2025 and continue to look at actions to further improve our stance in a manner that remains proportionate to our business and the related risks.

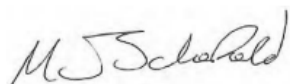

The training and capacity building about slavery and human trafficking available to our staff

To ensure an appropriate level of understanding of the risks of Modern Slavery in our supply chains and our business, we have developed and delivered mandatory training on Modern Slavery to all our employees.

The annual mandatory e-learning training provides information on the different forms of Modern Slavery, some common indicators to look out for and the actions an employee must take if they suspect that it is occurring within our business and supply chain. This training forms part of the on boarding process for roles which have the closest contact with our supply chain and refresher training is delivered to all employees annually.

We have cited our existing whistleblowing procedure as one route for employees to report instances of Modern Slavery of which, an annual e-learning course is also required to be completed by all employees.

This statement was approved by the Boards of the relevant companies on 4 June, 2026.
